...from the Chair

First, let me thank all of the people who have made the last two years so eventful. Most of the board is simply rearranging itself, but other chapter members are coming on in different jobs. Check the committees and see if there is someplace you would like to help. “The more the merrier,” as the old saying goes. Secondly, I am told to introduce myself as the new Chapter Chair—after at least 25 years of active membership. Having grown up in the country south of Buffalo, NY, my interest has always been the out-of-doors. Spring saw us looking for wildflowers, summers we waded or swam in the creek (pronounced “crick” out there), fall walks in the woods were special, and winter skiing or tobogganing on the hill across the road gave us a view across Lake Erie to the Canadian shore line. My husband and I visited Oneonta in October 1962 looking for a good town in which to open a dental office. We fell in love with these beautiful, colorful hills and have been here ever since, raising our family and now nearing retirement.

Those of us in the Tuesday outings group have really been enjoying some fantastic cross-county skiing this January, February, and early March. It seems to me that the forest is even more beautiful in winter without the foliage obstructing views from our wonderful hills. The crisp air revives our overheated minds, and the completely renewed landscape takes us away from our daily cares without traveling to far places.

Spring will soon arrive with what we have come to call “mud season.” But let us not be too pessimistic; we started seeing robins about a month ago. And did you know that a flower called the Snow Drop is already poking out of the ground under the snow? It happens every year in my garden. The streams are open and are playing their music, soon to be joined by spring peepers. So we will soon trade our skis for rubber boots and enjoy spring.

CHAPTER CHANGES AND NEWS YOU CAN USE

www.susqadk.org

After thinking about it for at least two years and finally getting to work, we are now ON THE WEB. Yes, we did have a web site before this, but it was hosted and maintained through the ADK main club. With this change of control we hope to have a more attractive site with many local pictures, be able to make changes as quickly as they come along, and reach out both to fellow ADKers and other interested people. The page can be accessed as before via the ADK web page (www.adk.org) by going to Membership, then ADK Chapters, then choosing Susquehanna. Or just go directly to www.susqadk.org. So far, the site includes links to our schedule of outings, contact persons, and a previously hidden chapter "treasure," our reference library. Please browse the site and give me your feedback.

Foot-Loose via E-mail

Following in the footsteps of Jo's work in getting our web site up and running, I am ready to distribute Foot-Loose via e-mail to those members who are able to open an Adobe Reader .pdf file. Distributing the newsletter via e-mail will save postage and printing costs and will allow for faster delivery. After opening the file you can read the newsletter on your screen or print your own copy. If you want to receive Foot-Loose in this way, please send me an e-mail at susquehannaadk@aol.com. If you are interested but are not sure that your computer can do this, please contact me and we will try to work out the process.

Additionally, Jo Koenig and I maintain a list of chapter members' e-mail addresses. If your e-mail address changes or if you are not sure that we have your correct address, please contact each of us at jokoening@dmcom.net and susquehannaadk@aol.com. Thank you.

Garlic Mustard: A hiker's guide

Garlic Mustard (Alliaria petiolata) is an invasive herb, now widespread throughout New York. It gets its name from the strong garlic odor of the crushed leaves. Because of its small seeds and ability to disperse on boots just when the spring hiking season is in full swing, ADKers need to be aware of their potential to control the infestation. Garlic Mustard is a biennial; in its first year it grows as a low rosette often below the level of native Trilliums and Dog-tooth violets. During this time it puts most of its resources into a substantial root network. In the second year, it uses this reserve to send out a large reproductive shoot (the "bolt"), which produces hundreds of flowers in May and hundreds of seeds in June. It is this reproductive bolt that interferes with native species, by out-competing them for light in early May.

The good news is that small outcrops of Garlic Mustard are easy to control. As the plant begins to flower, its resources are diverted out of the roots, making them a snap to pull out of the ground. This method has worked well along the Oneonta Susquehanna Greenway, and several areas formerly thick with Garlic Mustard have now returned to native wildflowers thanks to a small army of weed pullers. The pulled weeds must be bagged, because if individual plants are simply flung into the woods they will likely be able to complete seed production anyway. The other way Garlic Mustard can be controlled is by boot cleaning. If you hike in late May and recognize fruiting stalks of Garlic Mustard, take care to clean your boots before hiking in more pristine areas. In both the Adirondack and Catskill Parks, projects are underway to control the spread of invasive species. Alan White is leading the Catskill Park efforts (www.catskillcenter.org), and the Adirondack Park Invasive Plant Program can be seen at <http://www.adkinvasives.com/>. Next issue: Knotweeds!

Trails report

This winter's work included moving wood to the site of a bridge over a small stream on the Arnold Lake trail. The bridge, about 15' long, will be made of treated lumber and has cost the club about $150. It's now wrapped in a tarp near the stream and will be assembled when good weather arrives in the spring. Thanks go to the Salos, Sanfords, Mahlkes, Danny Birnbaum, Bob Consigli, Bob Pierce, and Nina Hart, who schlepped the bridge a half mile on toboggans and sleds.

New State Park in Westford

Chapter members can add a new destination to the list of local places to hike and ski. Betty and Wilbur Davis State Park is located in the northwest corner of the town of Westford. The park is administered out of Glimmerglass State Park and consists of about 180 acres located on the top of the ridge between the villages of Westford and Middlefield. It has beautiful views from the open areas. There is a parking lot plowed out and a couple of ski or hiking trails made up from old woods roads. They are marked with tape for the present (the park is currently "under development"). In summer there is a picnic area and a couple of small ponds. We snowshoed "Andy's Trail" and found it very attractive. It drops down along a stream, out of the wind; a drawback is that it's not a loop. We had to walk back along the road or retrace our tracks. The new Otsego County road map shows Davis Road and Gately Road as seasonal (unplowed) but they were plowed and sanded so access was easy. It is worth going to for a new spot.

Trip Reports

December 28, Tuesday Eleven ADK members gathered (with temperatures measuring between 10 and 20 degrees below zero) at the Great American parking lot in Delhi. The skies were overcast. We drove to the estate of Johana Arnold and Kim Paterson where we had been invited to hike or to skate. Only two to three inches of snow were on the ground, too little for skiing. A comment with regard to skating was, "The ice had gotten harder with our advancing age." It looked really slippery and fast, so no one was interested. However, the hike led by Johana was very enjoyable. We saw and identified one huge old Red Oak tree, a marvel to behold. An invitation was extended to return for a ski trip if circumstances permit. We thanked our gracious hosts upon parting.

Erika Baker-Heinegg

January 4, Tuesday It must have been the post-holiday need to get outdoors and exercise that brought 24 people out to walk some trails in the Arnold Lake State Forest on a very cold day with not much snow. As ever, it was beautiful. We chose an area where there would be less likelihood for wet places underfoot, but we did break through some icy spots. Walking fast, we completed the circuit in an hour and a half. Then most of us reassembled at Jackie's Restaurant (a winter favorite) in Milford for soup, etc.

Jo Koenig

January 25, Tuesday Thirteen members gathered for a beautiful blue sky, perfect snow day on the Delhi Golf Course. The more sedate had level skiing while the others had plenty of hills, valleys and beautiful views. Most of the participants met afterwards at the Crossroads Cafe for a tasty lunch.

Erika Baker-Heinegg

Jan 30-Feb 1 Annual Loj Winter Weekend Fourteen chapter members enjoyed a perfect winter weekend of X-C skiing and winter activities. Lucille's daughter Carolyn introduced our group to trails around the John Brown Farm and, the next day, a section of the Jackrabbit Trail behind Pitchoff. On various days all enjoyed skiing on the perfect snow and groomed trails of Van Hoevenberg. Some extended their vacation with a stay at Mountain

Meadows B&B in Keene Valley.

Aleda Koehn

February 1, Tuesday Eleven skiers, two hikers, and four snowshoers enjoyed a beautiful, sunny February morning at Hartwick College's Pine Lake Environmental Center. Lunch was outside at the picnic tables. Only four of us decided to eat inside the lodge where it was extra warm and cozy.

Julie Smith

February 8, Tuesday Eighteen of us went out to Beaver Meadow Road, a couple of miles outside Cooperstown. Fourteen of us snowshoed, two skied and two hiked through the woods and around and up to Clark's Tower and Ambrose Clark's grave. He is buried with his horse and dog. Because the area is now enclosed by a high iron fence it is difficult to read the inscription on the tombstone. We made out the name of the dog, Buttons, a retriever, who retrieved over 3000 birds. It was not a great day weather-wise (damp with some periods of drizzle) but we were glad we made a final decision to go. It was a very enjoyable time and great exercise.

Nuala MacCabe

February 15, Tuesday Ten am found 20 hikers ready and able at Kay Kantorowski's, outside of Cooperstown. Several people had snowshoes and the rest had small crampons/stabilizers so they could walk the trail. There was enough wet snow for the trek going from the house down along Red Creek and circling back around and up the trail to the house. Lunch was homemade soup, snacks, and lemon poppyseed bread, topped by valentine cookies! We earned it! Many thanks to those who attended, and Bev Hensle, Nuala MacCabe and Cathy Allen for extra food contributions. The sun came out about halfway through the hike, and the temperature was in the mid-40s, so all in all a glorious morning!

Kay Kantorowski

February 23, Sunday Beautiful but cold snow greeted eleven intrepid winter lovers at Crumhorn Lake. Six of us skied the lake and Boy Scout Camp while five walked the woods roads. Later, a warm fire and covered dish supper was enjoyed by all in the cozy cottage.

Long Path in Another Country

I have a pen pal in Auckland, New Zealand. Although she is crippled she knows of my interest in all things outdoors and sends me an article occasionally. She also keeps me supplied annually with a wildlife calendar.

I thought our members would be interested in information from the following article from the North Shore Times dated Tuesday, November 16, 2004.

“The first section of Te Araroa (the Long Pathway) opened in 1995 on the North Island going from Waitanga to Kerikeri. About 170 kilometers have since been opened. It is the project of the Te Araroa Trust, which obtains funds through grants. They have an agreement with the Department of Conservation so that the pathway can pass through public lands. There exist huts for overnight use in these forests. The track, which is the Kiwi word for trail, is planned to cover both islands and will extend from Cape Reinga to Bluff when it is completed. Of course, much of it will need to go over privately held properties, so rights of way and permissions must be obtained.”

The reason for the article was to announce the opening of a 23-kilometer section in the Auckland area. It goes along the bay and beaches with terrific views across to the main part of the city of Auckland, not far from my friend's house. Indeed, I hope to go there and walk it next year! I will keep the article available for anyone interested in reading it.

News from the Board of Directors

DIRECTOR'S REPORT, MEETING OF MARCH 12, 2005

President Tom Wheeler: In 2004 ADK made progress in getting its financial house in order and completed the leadership transition to the new Executive Director, Neil Woodworth. Goals for 2005 include a focus on membership retention and growth, and looking toward the future as strategic planning for the next five years is completed. This process will set and prioritize goals. The Marketing Committee has been formed to work on issues of branding and marketing to increase public awareness of ADK's role and relevance.

Executive Director Neil Woodward: Neil has established a team approach to running ADK with Deputy Executive Director John Million and Director of Finance Bob Rudolf. Neil continues to wear several hats as he continues in Conservation and Advocacy and also covering, with the team, Membership and Development. There is a good possibility that the Development position will be filled, as an excellent candidate has been offered the job.

Membership and Development: The Fall membership appeal had a low return; this was also true for other outdoor organizations. ADK hired a consultant to better design the spring appeal. We were each handed a packet offering a $10.00 discount on new memberships. We were told that we could copy this and use it for any new members. The chapters will have an important role in increasing the overall membership, and the retention rate is higher for those who belong to a chapter. (I have the discount materials for anyone who wants copies.) Direct mail is the greatest source of new members. Second is the web site. The proposed Catskill Chapter does not seem to be going anywhere at the present. There is interest in starting chapters in Montreal, Burlington, VT, Hartford, CT, and Springfield, MA.

Finances and Audit: ADK ended 2004 with $64,000 net surplus. Investments showed a gain of $100,000. DEC finally paid for the trail work done by ADK, and Neil held up a check for $130,000. It was pointed out that between 1997 and 2002 ADK lost money on operational expenses every year. Any profits shown during that period came from investments. The focus now is to continue profitability in operations. The auditor presented the ADK financial report for 2004. I have a copy of this report if anyone is interested.

Strategic Plan 2005-2009: Plan was presented with the following sections: I. Background, II. Proposed Revised Mission Statement, III. Strategic Goals. The document also contains a discussion of the goals, a means to achieving the mission, organizational needs, and concluding remarks. There was some discussion about wording of some parts, and just how far ADK extends. There will be more on this in the future.

Overall: Committee members made reports. There was discussion of the proposed charter for the Marketing Committee (some changes and suggestions were made). There were no major action items. The problem with the updating of membership lists has been the conversion to a new system and no technical help. The staff is working on this.

Aleda J. Koehn

Conservation Notes

Bear canisters: Bears in the Adirondacks have become so adept at raiding food supplies that the DEC is moving toward requiring use of bear canisters for storing food on overnight camping. Details are still being worked out; DEC may use this coming year to educate hikers on the use of the canisters, or may require them in the High Peaks region. ADK has a limited supply of these cans to rent and likely will acquire more to meet the need. Meanwhile, if you are out in the woods cooking dinner and company arrives in the form of a hungry bear, you can try one hiker's trick: he grabbed a tarp and held it up over his head, on the theory that this "shows the bear who is the bigger fellow!"

Community Preservation Act: If put into place by the state, the Community Preservation Act would provide a tool that communities could use to raise money for preserving historic structures such as old barns, or to put toward matching EPF funds for creating parks or other land preserves. It would allow a community, if it wished, to hold a public referendum on whether to impose a 2% tax on homes valued above a median price, then use the monies for preservation. Although nothing in the act is mandatory, and communities themselves would decide by public referendum, the act is still opposed by real estate agents and developers. Watch for news on this act.
